The 7 Essential Life Skills:
#5 Critical Thinking

Adults can bolster Critical Thinking by encouraging children to be curious about how the world works and urging them to conduct experiments. Be sure not jump in too quickly and answer their questions as they discover reliable answers.

Tips

• Watch your child at play and look for "theory making" in action.

  What is she/he trying to understand? For example, when your child fills containers, is she/he filling them with the same amount of items each time? Is she/he putting in different sized objects? What big ideas like size or shape or another category could she be exploring?

• Join with your child in her/his discoveries by asking questions or commenting on what she/he is doing like: "I wonder what will happen if you fill that bucket all the way to the top?" When you help your child think of different possibilities, you encourage her/him to think flexibly and try out ideas to get new information.

Take your child's interests to the next level

• Offer your child lots of opportunities to explore dumping and filling in new and different ways. Give him/her boxes, bags and empty containers of different sizes to fill with items.

• Create experiments that involve dumping and filling: "Do you think this empty shampoo bottle will float? What would happen if we filled it with water? Let's see." Even though your child cannot yet answer your questions, you are demonstrating important Critical Thinking skills like making predictions, testing out ideas and coming up with new strategies based on the answers.
We hope you will join us in this series of FREE workshops. Each Mind in the Making workshop provides participants the opportunity to reflect on their own experiences and practices, discover how children (and adults) learn best, and discuss how to apply the knowledge while learning about all 7 Essential Life Skills. Click on the links below to access past newsletters with information about other essential life skills:

- Focus and Self Control
- Perspective Taking
- Communicating
- Making Connections
- Critical Thinking
- Taking On Challenges
- Self-Directed Engaged Learning

This program is an excellent way to improve communication, become a better role model, and demonstrate the essential life skills so your babies can be ready to learn (it’s SUPER fun!).

Mind in the Making is made possible for the Suncoast Campaign for Grade-Level Reading with generous support from The Patterson Foundation.

If you would like to have a series of workshops at your place of employment, church, or community organization, or are interested in participating in the workshops, please contact SCGLR at info@gradelevelreadingsuncoast.net.

Kindness in words creates confidence. Kindness in thinking creates profoundness. Kindness in giving creates love.

Can you create your own obstacle course? What concepts will you help your child discover?

Playtime Picks

Pick a color or letter with your child and, together, go on a scavenger hunt to find as many things as you can in three minutes. How many things in the house are blue? Count out loud together as you find each item. You can also play with letters: How many things do you see that start with T?

Brainy Background

Powered by Mind In The Making

"I Spy" games like this one are great brain-builders. They make your child aware of his/her environment and teach him/her to make connections between similar things. You can try this game with letters, colors, shapes - anything really!
